Attendance of museums and galleries in England.

Museums and galleries are very important tourist places as they present the history and culture of a country. ~~That said~~ Thus, heads of museums and galleries should really ^{close} pay attention to how often people visit these places.

The table draws on a rate of the attendance of museums and galleries in different years. It shows that overall the amount of visits increases throughout the years. For example, British Museum had 2.6 million visits in 2013 and 5.6 ^{million visits} ~~mln~~ in 2017. It can be considered a swift growth. However, the table also shows ~~the~~ a rapid decrease of tourists' visits in museums that introduced admission charges. For instance, Science Museum had 3.8 mln, 1.3 mln and 1.6 mln visits in 2013, 2015 and 2017 respectively. We can see that the amount of visits in 2015 is almost 3 times less than in 2013.

Appealing to the data I ~~use~~ recommend museums and galleries not to introduce admission fees if they want to increase attendance. I also recommend them to use advertisement to make them popular with the tourists.

All in all, I am happy that people visit museums and galleries nowadays more often than before. However, I don't really like the methods ~~used~~ used by some museums to earn money. I think museums and galleries should be free of charge and use some substantial methods rather than entry fees to make profit.
